Key Takeaways

Key Eastern European and nearby European manufacturers of DC protection relays include FANOX, Ormazabal, and Schaltbau, offering solutions for industrial, renewable energy, and DC power systems. Notable Brands and ManufacturersFANOX – A Spanish company with strong presence in Europe, FANOX produces DC and generator protection relays suitable for low-voltage generators, photovoltaic systems, and energy storage applications, featuring thermal memory and advanced tripping functions. Ormazabal – Based in Spain but serving Eastern European markets, Ormazabal specializes in digital power grid solutions, including DC protection relays for renewable energy integration and industrial DC networks.

Schaltbau – A German industrial company with a broad portfolio of DC relays and protection devices, Schaltbau products are widely used in electrification projects, including DC traction, energy storage, and industrial automation. Other European Suppliers – Companies like Hengstler (Germany) and CARLO GAVAZZI (Italy/Europe) provide safety relays, monitoring relays, and DC protection modules suitable for industrial and renewable energy applications. These brands often supply DIN rail-mounted relays, residual current protection, and insulation monitoring devices compatible with DC systems up to 1000V.
