How many meters is a mesh cable tray

Overview

Cable Tray Dimensions Guide: Standard Sizes, Tray Types & Sizing We will first explain standard cable tray dimensions used across the industry, then examin.

Key Takeaways

A standard section of wire mesh cable tray is typically 3 meters long, though shorter sections of 1. 5 meters are also common. Wire mesh cable trays, also known as basket trays, are modular and designed for flexibility in routing cables.

The most common pre-fabricated straight section length is 3 meters, which allows for efficient installation and minimal joints in long cable runs (Gewiss BFR Series). Some manufacturers also offer 1. 5-meter sections, which are useful for tighter spaces or custom layouts, and these can often be cut to fit specific requirements (Tripp Lite SRWB18410X2STR).

Additional Considerations

Support Spacing: Wire mesh trays are typically supported at spans of 2. 5 meters or less to maintain structural integrity and prevent sagging. Customization: Many manufacturers can produce custom lengths according to project specifications, allowing flexibility beyond standard 1.

5 m or 3 m sections. Width and Height: While length is standardized, widths and heights vary depending on cable volume and type, commonly ranging from 50 mm to 450 mm wide and 50 mm to 150 mm high. In practice, choosing the correct section length depends on the installation environment, support spacing, and the need for field modifications.

Standard 3-meter sections are widely used for general installations, while 1. 5-meter sections provide more flexibility in confined or complex layouts.
