Key Takeaways

Wholesale Butuo grid cable trays are available from verified suppliers with competitive factory-direct pricing, typically determined by material, size, and order volume.

Overview

Butuo grid cable trays are widely used in industrial, commercial, and institutional electrical installations for structured cable management. They are constructed from materials such as high-tensile steel, aluminum, stainless steel, or fiber-reinforced polymers, often with powder-coated, galvanized, or corrosion-resistant finishes to suit different environments. The trays' open-lattice design allows for excellent ventilation, easy cable access, and modular installation, which makes them ideal for large-scale projects.

Factors Affecting Wholesale Price

Material: Steel and stainless steel trays are generally more expensive than aluminum or plastic variants due to higher strength and durability. Size and Load Capacity: Larger trays or those designed for heavy-duty loads cost more. Finish and Coating: Galvanized or powder-coated trays have higher prices due to corrosion protection.
